To whom it may concern:

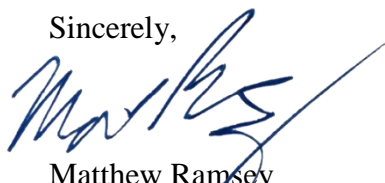

My name is Matthew Ramsey and I am an Assistant Professor in the Department of Cell and Molecular Biology at the University of Rhode Island. It is my pleasure to recommend Jordan Dudley for a position in the UVA Summer Medical Leadership Program. Jordan was a student in my CMB201 – ‘Medical Microbiology’ course in the fall of 2016.

Jordan finished in the top 5% of my course (of 272 students) with an A. In a class this large, it’s somewhat difficult for me to get to know many of the students. Despite this, Jordan has established herself as a willing and eager participant in class, attending all lectures that I can recall as well as my voluntary exam review sessions. Jordan received a 99% grade in the laboratory section of this course as well.

Jordan has maintained her grades alongside the time commitments of being involved as an RA on campus, a member of the Student Alumni Association and her time serving on the executive board of the Best Buddies charity which is highly active in the New England area. Her dedication to this and ability to maintain high grades in her coursework speaks well of her work ethic and self-discipline. Over the last year I have had numerous occasions to meet and speak with Jordan and I have been consistently impressed in her ability to speak confidently with myself and other professors and feel that she has what it takes to work with people both above and below her position. All of her service and these qualities combined make me confident that Jordan would perform well in a leadership role.

Whatever you decide, I am sure that Jordan will be highly successful and I look forward to seeing her progress beyond her time at our University. I recommend Jordan without reservation and I hope you agree.

Sincerely,

Matthew Ramsey
